Subject: This Success is Yours Too

Dear Parents,

I wanted to share some incredible news with you - I got the promotion! But more importantly, I wanted to thank you because this success belongs to you as much as it does to me.

Every late night you helped me with school projects, every time you encouraged me to aim higher, every sacrifice you made for my education led to this moment. The work ethic you instilled in me, the confidence you built in me, the values you taught me - they all played a part in this achievement.

When I started this job three years ago, feeling nervous and uncertain, you reminded me of all the challenges I'd already overcome. When I doubted myself before big presentations, I heard your voices telling me I could do anything I set my mind to.

The leadership skills I demonstrate at work? I learned them watching you manage our household with wisdom and grace. The integrity my colleagues respect? You taught me that by your example every single day.

Thank you for believing in me before I learned to believe in myself. Thank you for pushing me to reach for more while always loving me exactly as I am.

I can't wait to celebrate with you this weekend!

Your proud and grateful child,

[Your name]
