Dear [Spouse's Name],

Subject: Divorce Notification

I hope this letter finds you well. With a heavy heart, I am writing to inform you that I believe it is in the best interest of both of us to proceed with a divorce. Over the past few months, we have both struggled to find common ground and resolve the issues that have been affecting our marriage. After careful consideration and reflection, I have come to the difficult decision that ending our marriage is the most appropriate course of action.

I want to emphasize that this decision was not taken lightly, and I understand the impact it will have on both of our lives. Despite the challenges we faced together, I sincerely appreciate the time we shared as a couple and the memories we created.

At this stage, I believe it is essential for us to part ways amicably and with mutual respect. I propose that we consider mediation or seek legal counsel to ensure a fair and equitable division of our assets, as well as arrangements for any children involved. My main priority is to minimize the emotional stress on all parties, especially our children, and find a solution that is agreeable to both of us.

I am willing to engage in open and honest discussions to reach a settlement that works for both of us. I hope we can move through this process with respect for each other and focus on rebuilding our lives separately while remaining responsible co-parents for our children.

I understand that this is a challenging time for both of us, and I am open to discussing any concerns or questions you may have regarding the divorce proceedings. It is my hope that we can move forward in a way that allows us to heal and grow individually.

Please feel free to reach out to me at any time to initiate discussions or to share your thoughts on the matter. If you believe that mediation is the best approach, I am open to exploring that option together.

Wishing you strength and resilience during this difficult time.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
