

Literary Agent Query Cover Letter

Subject: Aspiring Literary Agent - Application

Dear [Agency Principal's Name],

I am writing to express my strong interest in joining [Agency Name] as a literary agent. Having followed your agency's remarkable success in representing both emerging and established voices, I am inspired by your commitment to championing diverse storytelling.

My background uniquely positions me for this role. I hold an MFA in Creative Writing and have spent four years as an acquisitions editor at [Publishing House], where I acquired and edited twenty-three titles across literary fiction and narrative nonfiction. This experience has honed my ability to identify marketable manuscripts and understand the commercial publishing landscape.

Beyond editorial skills, I bring strong business acumen and relationship-building capabilities. I have cultivated extensive connections within the publishing community, including editors at major houses, marketing professionals, and fellow agents. I am comfortable negotiating contracts and advocating fiercely for authors' interests.

My editorial sensibility gravitates toward literary fiction with commercial appeal, particularly stories featuring underrepresented perspectives and innovative narrative structures. However, I am also drawn to memoir and cultural criticism that challenges conventional thinking.

I am deeply committed to the agent-author partnership model, understanding that my role extends beyond selling manuscripts to career stewardship and creative advocacy. I would be honored to contribute to [Agency Name]'s continued success and help shape the next generation of important literary voices.

Thank you for considering my application. I would welcome the opportunity to discuss my qualifications further.

Best regards,
